Understanding Concept of Classroom & Modes of Classroom

Classroom is a concept used to educate or train users in groups. In FvPro Learn we have digitalized classroom concept. Base concept will remain the same, that means, to educate trainees in groups.

We have 4 modes of classroom trainings, or we can train trainees in 4 ways,

1. Fully Self-Paced Classroom
2. Instructor-led self-paced In-Person Classroom
3. Instructor-led In-person Classroom
4. Instructor-led Virtual Classroom

Now we will explore these modes one by one.

Understanding Concept of Classroom & Modes of Classroom

Fully Self-Paced Classroom

A self-paced training will be assigned to a group of users, which they can watch as per their convenience. This is closer to standard self-paced training method but in group environment user has privilege to share his thoughts with group colleagues, ask instructor or colleagues any questions or involve in group discussion etc.

Instructor-led, self-paced, In-Person, Classroom

This classroom mode will start up with a conventional classroom environment where trainee and trainer get together in a single room. Trainer will start with premade trainings. That will run through projector or single screen present in the classroom. After a video ends, trainee can ask questions directly. Same training will be assigned to the trainees. They may be asked to take quizzes or exam to secure certification. Trainees can use discussion board to discuss with trainer and colleagues.

Instructor-led In-person Classroom

In this mode of classroom, lecture or training will be delivered by an on-site trainer. User can ask question directly to the trainer. After training, recording of that training (if any) along with quizzes and exams will be assigned to trainees to test knowledge gained in that training. Trainees will have opportunity to watch videos (if provided) to refresh what they have learned in training session. Discussion board will help trainees to ask questions or share ideas with colleagues after training session.
